

(Mobile library) An Ottoman Traveller: Selections from the Book of Travels by Evliya elebi

An Ottoman Traveller: Selections from the Book of Travels by Evliya elebi

Von Robert Dankoff

audiobook / *ebooks / Download PDF / ePub / DOC

Download

Read Online

Produktinformation -Verkaufsrank: #465067 in eBooksVerffentlicht am: 2011-10-18Erscheinungsdatum: 2011-10-18File Name: B0078XG3Y4 | File size: 61.Mb

Von Robert Dankoff : An Ottoman Traveller: Selections from the Book of Travels by Evliya elebi before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised An Ottoman Traveller: Selections from the Book of Travels by Evliya elebi:

KundenrezensionenHilfreichste Kundenrezensionen0 von 0 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. one of the greatest ottoman travelerVon NaneDankoff is an excellent expert of Evliya Celebi, who was an influential travel writer from the 17th century. This book is all about Evliya's travels through the Empire, from the Arab Middle East to the deep in Balkan geography. For the ones, who are interested in the Ottoman history, and with special focus on Ottoman architecture, history, music, religion and multi-ethnicity of the cities from one person's view. I can only recommend KurzbeschreibungEvliya elebi is the greatest travel writer of the Ottoman Empire. Born in Istanbul in 1611, he started travelling in 1640 and continued for over forty years, stopping eventually in Cairo where he died in about 1685. He collected his lively and eclectic observations into a ten-volume manuscript the Seyahatname, or Book of Travels. For the first time in English, this selection gives a taste of the breadth of Evliya's interests: from architecture to natural history, through religion, politi, linguisti, music, science and the supernatural. While he made over a thousand complete recitations of the Koran in his lifetime, he also wrote with curiosity about Christianity, about his own impotence, about the anti at a world convention of trapeze artists and the feats of a Kurdish sorcerer who conjured a horse from a log pile.PressestimmenCelebi's writings provide a fascinating and unmatched picture of his world, and this volume finally makes his journeys available to an English-speaking audience. -- Choice

"Choice"KurzbeschreibungEvliya elebi is the greatest travel writer of the Ottoman Empire. Born in Istanbul in 1611, he started travelling in 1640 and continued for over forty years, stopping eventually in Cairo where he died in about 1685. He collected his lively and eclectic observations into a ten-volume manuscript the Seyahatname, or Book of Travels. For the first time in English, this selection gives a taste of the breadth of Evliya's interests: from architecture to natural history, through religion, politi, linguisti, music, science and the supernatural. While he made over a thousand complete recitations of the Koran in his lifetime, he also wrote with curiosity about Christianity, about his own impotence, about the anti at a world convention of trapeze artists and the feats of a Kurdish sorcerer who conjured a horse from a log pile.