KundenrezensionenHilfreichste Kundenrezensionen1 von 1 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. ErfrischendVon SenzasensoErfrischende und niedliche Liebesgeschichte mit ungewöhnlichem Setting, humorvoll und ganz ohne all die Blle, Earls, Rakes etc , mit denen in England spielende historische Liebesgeschichten in der Regel ausstaffiert sind. Nicht nur für Regency-Freundinnen eine hbsche Abwechslung. Sehr empfehlenswert

Kurzbeschreibung A medieval tournament in Victorian Britain, two unlikely lovers, a very grumpy editor, and an unfortunate dearth of umbrellas: Join the reporters of Allan's Miscellany on their first adventure as they travel to Scotland to attend the infamous Eglinton Tournament of 1839. "[T]hese books are dang cute. So freaking cute. You just get happy by reading." ~ Blodeuedd, customer review ALLAN'S MISCELLANY 1839 It's 1839, and Lord Eglinton's tournament in Scotland is the most anticipated event of the year: he and some of his noble friends will don medieval armor and joust like knights of old. Does this mean a revival of true chivalry? Miss Florence Marsh thinks it might. Or is the tournament mere tomfoolery and the greatest folly of the century? Mr. Robert Beaton thinks it is. But when Flo and Robbie meet at Eglinton Park, they'll soon learn that a dash of romance can make the greatest differences look rather small and that true love might find you in the most unlikely place. If only Robbie wasn't working for that scandalous new magazine Allan's Miscellany! If only Flo's father didn't detest the periodical press! And if only they had remembered to bring an umbrella! ~~~~~ About this book: Sandra Schwab invites you to accompany her to 19th-century England and Scotland in this sweet historical romance and to explore the exciting world of the early Victorian age. Other books in this series: A Tangled Web: Allan's Miscellany 1846 Devil's Return: Allan's Miscellany 1847 ber den Autor und weitere Mitwirkende Award-winning author Sandra Schwab started writing her first novel when she was seven years old. Thirty-odd years later, telling stories is still her greatest passion, even though by now she has exchanged her pink fountain pen of old for a black computer keyboard. Since the release of her debut novel in 2005, she has enchanted readers worldwide with her unusual historical romances. She holds a PhD in English literature and lives in Frankfurt am Main / Germany with a sketchbook, a sewing machine, and an ever-expanding library. In her new series about the fictitious Victorian magazine Allan's Miscellany she combines her academic research with her love of storytelling.
