a bit chaotic, lovely descriptions of the two omnipresent dachshounds for those like me who love dogs.

Kurzbeschreibung Rima Lanisell has a habit of losing things - car keys, sunglasses, lovers, family members. Following the death of Rima's father, she goes to stay with her godmother Addison, a wildly successful, albeit eccentric, mystery writer. Addison's beach house seems the place to make sense of Rima's loss, yet she is soon caught up in a mystery of her own. Who stole a small and highly valuable object from Addison's kitchen? Why is Rima corresponding with an obsessive fan, using someone else's family name? Most importantly: what exactly was the relationship between Addison and Rima's father, and why did Addison name a murderer after him in one of her novels? A funny, sad and wise literary mystery from the author of The Jane Austen Book Club. Pressestimmen: Priase for The Jane Austen Book Club: 'Fowler's light touch and sly wit are a delight' Sunday Times 'Very funny' Daily Telegraph 'We defy you not to fall head over heels for this lovely novel' Mail on Sunday 'Stylish, homely and deeply comforting' The Times 'This wonderful novel shows how some books enter our bloodstream' Independent 'Exquisite. It's that rare book that reminds us what reading is all about' The New York Times Book 'If I could eat this novel, I would' Alice Sebold
